Course Overview:

Oral Health Education focuses on the skills that dental nurses' need when communicating key messages to their patients based on their oral health. As a dental nurse you will see many patients who have a variety of dental diseases and these patients will in turn have a variety of need.

Communication needs to be adapted to suit individual patients; age groups and level of understanding and the oral health education certificate will require you to examine the best methods of communication to use and how to tailor this to the patient. It will also teach you about how you can deliver oral health messages that follow the SMART acronym: Specific, Measurable, Achievable, Realistic and Timed.
